Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 20 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A rather cloudy day with the odd sunny spell.

Today:
After a bright start for some, a rather cloudy day, with patchy light rain or drizzle in places. Cloud lifts slightly through the afternoon, allowing for some sunny spells and a few light showers. Feeling cooler than recently. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloud builds through the evening, although the odd clear spell remains possible overnight. Further outbreaks of patchy rain or drizzle are likely, and it should remain frost-free. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Sunday:
A rather cloudy day, with outbreaks of patchy light rain or drizzle possible through morning. Cloud slowly lifts throughout the day, bringing some sunny spells and a few light showers. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Rather cloudy but largely dry on Monday and Tuesday, with occasional outbreaks of patchy light rain. Isolated showers possible Wednesday, before a band of rain moves in through the evening.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.